3. INTRODUCTION TO PAIA

The South African Constitution places an obligation upon both public and private bodies to allow access to records held by them. For private bodies, this is conditioned upon the demonstration that the information is needed for the exercise or protection of other rights.

The Promotion of Access to Information Act 2 of 2000 (“PAIA”) was established “to give effect to the constitutional right of access to any information held by the State and any information that is held by another person and that is required for the exercise or protection of any rights; and to provide for matters connected therewith”.

You are therefore entitled to make a request to the Company in terms of PAIA for a document or information which has been processed by the Company in order to exercise the above constitutional right.

4. GUIDANCE ON SUBMITTING A PAIA REQUEST

PAIA grants a requester access to records of a private body, if the record is required for the exercise or protection of any rights. If a public body lodges a request, the public body must be acting in the public interest.

Requests in terms of PAIA shall be made in accordance with the prescribed procedures, at the rates provided in PAIA.

Requesters are referred to the Guide in terms of Section 10 of PAIA which has been compiled by the South African Human Rights Commission (“SAHRC”), which contains information for the purposes of exercising Constitutional Rights. The Guide is available on the SAHRC’s offices or on their website.

The contact details of the Commission are as follows:

- 8.1. The fee structure is attached to this manual as Annexure 2.
- 8.2. A requestor is required to pay the prescribed fees R50.00 before a request will be processed.
- 8.3. If the preparation of the record requested requires more than the prescribed hours (six), a deposit shall be paid (of not more than one third of the access fee which would be payable if the request were granted);
- 8.4. A requestor may lodge an application with a court against the tender/payment of the request fee and/or deposit.
- 8.5. The actual postage is payable when a copy of a record must be posted to a requester.
- 8.6. Records may be withheld until the fees have been paid.

9. REMEDIES WHEN PAIA REQUEST IS DENIED

If you are not satisfied with a decision made by the Information Officer, such as, for denying access to a record, for imposing access fees, or for extending the time period within which the record is due, you may apply to court within 180 days of receiving the decision that has caused the grievance.

10. RECORDS TO WHICH ACCESS MUST BE REFUSED

In terms of PAIA, request of records relating to the following information must be refused by the Information Officer:

- Privacy of a third party who is a natural person: if its disclosure would involve the unreasonable disclosure of personal information about a third party, including a deceased individual.
- Certain records of the South African Revenue Service (SARS): if it contains information that was obtained or is held by SARS for the purposes of enforcing legislation concerning the collection of revenue as define.

- commercial information of third party: the Deputy Information Officer must refuse a request if the record contains:
 - trade secrets of a third party;
 - financial, commercial, scientific or technical information other than trade secrets of a third party, of which the disclosure could likely cause harm to the commercial or financial interests of that third party; or information supplied in confidence by a third party and the disclosure could put that third party at a disadvantage in contractual or other negotiations, or prejudice that third party in commercial competition.
- Confidential information of a third party: if the disclosure of the record would constitute an action for breach of a duty of confidence owed to a third party in terms of an agreement.
- Safety of individuals and protection of property: if its disclosure could reasonably be expected to endanger the life or physical safety of an individual.
- Police dockets in bail proceedings, and protection of law enforcement and legal proceedings: if access to that record is prohibited in terms of section 60 (14) of the Criminal Procedure Act, 1977 (Act 51 of 1977).
- Records privileged from production in legal proceedings: if the record is privileged from production in legal proceedings unless the person entitled to the privilege has waived the privilege.
- Research information of third party, and protection of research information of public body: if the record contains information about research being or to be carried out by or on behalf of a third party, the disclosure of which would be likely to expose:
 - the third party;
 - a person that is or will be carrying out the research on behalf of the third party; or
 - the subject matter of the research to serious disadvantage.

11. RECORDS THAT CANNOT BE LOCATED

If the Company cannot find a document which the requester has requested despite reasonable and diligent search and the Company believes that the record has been lost or that the record is in its possession but unattainable, then the Information Officer will furnish the requester with an affidavit setting out the measures taken to locate the record and his/her inability to locate the document.

12. PROTECTION OF PERSONAL INFORMATION ACT 4 OF 2013 (“POPIA”)

The Constitution of the Republic of South Africa guarantees the right to privacy. In addition to the constitution, there are other legislation which regulate the manner in which personal information is processed. Protection of Personal Information Act 4 of 2013 (POPIA) was promulgated into law on 26 November 2013, and is by far the most substantial piece of legislation which protects the personal information of both living natural persons and existing entities. POPIA amends PAIA in a number of ways. One of the keys ways in which this Act changes PAIA relates to the role of the SAHRC. Under POPIA the SAHRC’s functions in terms of PAIA will be transferred to the Information Regulator, a new independent body which set up to monitor both the POPIA and PAIA, and to handle complaints relating to access to information and the protection of personal information. However, the SAHRC will still retain its Constitutional obligation to promote, protect and monitor the right of access to information as with all other rights enshrined in the Bill of Rights.

12.1. Information on how you can request your personal information under POPIA

- 12.1.1. Requests for personal information under POPIA must be made in accordance with the provisions of PAIA.
- 12.1.2. If we provide you with your personal information, you have the right to request the correction, deletion or destruction of your personal information, in the prescribed form attached hereto as Annexure 3.
- 12.1.3. You may also object to the processing of your personal information in the prescribed form.
- 12.1.4. We will give you a written estimate of the fee for providing you with your personal information, before providing you with the services. We may also require you to provide us with a deposit for all or part of the fee prior to giving you the requested personal information.

12.2. Purpose of Processing

- 12.2.1. POPIA provides that personal information may only be processed lawfully and in a reasonable manner that does not infringe your (the data subject’s) privacy.
- 12.2.2. The type of personal information that we process will depend on the purpose for which it is collected. We will disclose to you why the personal information is being collected and will process the personal information for that purpose only.

12.3. Undertaking by the Company

- 12.3.1. Mc Naught and Company Inc. undertakes to comply with the provisions of POPIA and to ensure that there are necessary measures in place to protect the personal information which it processes.
- 12.3.2. Mc Naught and Company Inc. undertakes to enter into written agreements to ensure that other contracting parties comply with our confidentiality and privacy requirements.

12.3.3. Personal information may also be disclosed where we have a legal duty or a legal right to do so.

12.4. How does the Company protect the personal information which it processed

12.4.1. Chapter 3 of POPIA sets out the conditions which a responsible party would have to comply with in order to lawfully process personal information. These conditions may not be derogated from unless specific exclusions in terms of POPIA apply.

12.4.2. In order to properly conduct its business as a law firm, the Company needs to obtain personal information of both individuals and juristic persons.

12.4.3. All legal practitioners who are practising for their own account within the Republic are obliged to comply with the requirements of the Financial Intelligence Centre Act 38 of 2001 (FICA). The Financial Intelligence Centre (FIC) is South Africa's national centre for the receipt of financial data, analysis and dissemination of financial intelligence to the competent authorities. The FIC was established by FICA and has the mandate to identify the proceeds of crime, combat money laundering and terror financing.

12.4.4. Section 43B of FICA requires a legal practice to register with the FIC as an accountable institution. Schedule 1 to FICA lists accountable institutions, and legal practitioners are included on the list.

12.4.5. Section 21A requires of the accountable institution, when establishing a business relationship with a prospective client, to obtain information to reasonably enable the accountable institution to determine whether future transactions, which will be performed during the course of the business relationship concerned are consistent with the institution's knowledge of that prospective client.

12.4.6. Moreover, legal proceedings contain information of individuals, some of which are personal.

12.4.7. Accordingly, Mc Naught and Company Inc is a "responsible party" for the purposes of POPIA and is required to and undertakes to comply with the information protection principles of POPIA

12.5. What are the information protection principles?

There are eight information processing principles which form the core of POPI. These are -

1. accountability: the responsible party must ensure that the eight information processing principles are complied with.
2. processing limitation: processing must be lawful and personal information may only be processed if it is adequate, relevant and not excessive given the purpose for which it is processed.

3. purpose specification: Personal information must be collected for a specific, explicitly defined and lawful purpose related to a function or activity of the responsible party. The responsible party must take steps to ensure that the data subject is aware of the purpose for which his/her personal information is being collected.
4. further processing limitation: this is where personal information is received from a third party and passed on to the responsible party for further processing. In these circumstances, the further processing must be compatible with the purpose for which it was initially collected.
5. information quality: the responsible party must take reasonably practicable steps to ensure that the personal information is complete, accurate, not misleading and updated where necessary, taking into account the purposes for which it was collected.
6. openness: Personal information may only be processed by a responsible party that has notified the Information Protection Regulator. Further certain prescribed information must be provided to the data subject by the responsible party including what information is being collected, the name and address of the responsible party, the purpose for which the information is collected and whether or not the supply of the information by that data subject is voluntary or mandatory.
7. security safeguards: the responsible party must secure the integrity of personal information in its possession or under its control by taking prescribed measures to prevent loss of, damage to or unauthorised destruction of personal information and unlawful access to or processing of personal information.
8. data subject participation: A data subject has the right to request a responsible party to confirm, free of charge, whether or not the responsible party holds personal information about the data subject and request from a responsible party the record or a description of the personal information held, including information about the identity of all third parties, or categories of third parties, who have, or have had, access to the information.

A data subject may request a responsible party to –

- correct or delete personal information about the data subject in its possession or under its control that is inaccurate, irrelevant, excessive, misleading or obtained unlawfully; or
- destroy or delete a record of personal information about the data subject that the responsible party is no longer authorised to retain.

12.6. Retention of processed information

Subject to exemptions provided for in POPI, personal information must not be retained any longer than is necessary for achieving the purpose for which the information was collected. The responsible party must retain the record for such period as may be required or prescribed by law or a code of conduct. If there is no law or code of conduct prescribing a retention period, it must retain the record for a period which will afford the data subject a reasonable opportunity to request access to the record.

A responsible party must destroy or delete a record of personal information as soon as reasonably practicable after the responsible party is no longer authorised to retain the record.

Rule 54.9.2 of the LPC's rules provides that a firm shall retain its accounting records, and all files and documents relating to matters dealt with by the firm on behalf of client for at least 7 years from date of the last entry recorded in each particular book or other document of record or file.

Upon expiry of the 7-year period, the Company will discard all documents or files by way of shredding the documents or file. With regards to FICA documentation, the Company will destroy all FICA documentation if that particular client has not been an active client for a period of 7 years.

12.7. Measures to ensure protection of the processed personal information:

The Company undertakes to abide by the POPIA regulations and to implement and maintain the data protection measures contained hereunder. The Company may also make use of alternative data protective measures which are not listed hereunder and adapt to technological security development, as needed, to ensure protection of the personal information is protected.

a) Fee and Mandate Agreements & FICA documentation:

- The attorney or candidate attorney that deals with a particular client will request and receive the Fee and Mandate Agreement and FICA documents from the client, and shall thereafter deliver the documents to the allocated FICA officer and the accountant of the Company.
- The Accountant of the Company will upload the documentation onto the Company's billing system in order for the system to generate an invoice for a particular client.
- The FICA Officer will file the Fee and Mandate Agreement and FICA documents in a locked cupboard which only the FICA Officer, Information Officer or Deputy Information Officer, and/or the relevant attorney/candidate attorney who was instructed by that particular client, have access to.
- The Company shall conclude an Operator's Agreement with the Billing System Service Provider to ensure compliance with the regulations of POPIA.

b) File controls

All employees of the Company have access to client files for purposes of handling of matters of clients. The Company shall ensure that there will be no unauthorised access to files by third parties.

c) Data Memory Control

The Company undertakes to implement suitable measures to prevent unauthorized input into data memory and the unauthorized reading, alteration or deletion of stored data.

d) Data stored on electronic devices

- Each staff member has his or her own laptop which he/she utilises for work purposes. Each laptop is password protected with only the user of the laptop and the employer having knowledge of the password.
 - Electronic emails are protected by way of Mimecast email security.
- e) Internet Protection
- The Company utilises various internet, malware, virus protection such as:
- NABLE antivirus;
 - Firewall;
 - Malware protection;
 - Mimecast email security
- f) The Company shall conclude non-disclosure agreements with each employee.
- g) The Company shall conclude Operator Agreements with relevant sub-contractors or service providers of the company that process personal information of its clients.
- h) The Company shall conduct training for all its employees to ensure that every employee understands the POPIA regulations and undertakes to adhere to the POPIA regulations as well as this manual.
- i) The Company shall not transfer personal information about a data subject to a third party who is in a foreign country unless certain protections are in place. Such protections include:
- The foreign country has a law that provides adequate protection;
 - There are binding corporate rules that provide adequate protection;
 - There is an agreement between sender and the receiver that provides adequate protection;
 - The data subject consents;
 - The transfer is necessary for the responsible party to perform in terms of a contract.

13. INCIDENT RESPONSE

In the event of an anticipated breach or an actual breach incident the following procedure will be followed:

- The Information Officer will inform the data-subject of the breach;
- The Information Officer will conduct an investigation regarding the incident; and
- Upon completion of investigation, the Information Officer will provide the data-subject with a report of the investigation
